

UNIFIED COMMUNICATIONS

Capturing the Hybrid Workforce with Unified Communications

The need for business continuity and the ability to work remotely has never been more critical. As technology changes the nature of our work and the way we live, Systel continually invests in products that are designed to transform how people connect, communicate, and collaborate.

HOW MUCH DO WE COMMUNICATE?

69% of our workday is spent on communication-based activities

3 hours a day are spent on phone calls and in meetings

31 the average number of people we interact with on a daily basis

The Workplace of the Future is the Workplace of Now!

With cloud-based unified communications, mobility is an advantage all its own, allowing work anywhere from any device. Unified communications empower employees within your business and while working with clients and partners. This collaboration is not limited to voice calls, but includes video calls, meetings, instant messaging, file transfers and desktop sharing – all available wherever you have an Internet connection.
